A Piece of My Life
Life is like a winding path, a journey of discovery, a path that leads to a destination.
We all have different journeys, different paths, along the way. We all struggle to make sense of things, but we never stop to stop.
The destination is there, for greater than we know. For when the journey's finished, for when the journey's done. And when the journey finally ends, we'll always be great friends.
