Glenn attended Edison High School and went on to earn a degree in education. She dedicated over a decade of her life to teaching—nurturing young minds with compassion, patience, and an unwavering commitment to learning.

She shared the love of her life, Joseph Richard Taghien, they entered into entrepreneurship and founded Richard Bakery, a beloved local establishment they operated from 2008 to 2012. In 2015, due to ongoing health challenges, Glenn retired early. Though her vibrant spirit continued to touch those around her.

She is survived by her devoted husband, Joseph Richard, her cherished mother, Elizabeth Lusk O'Brien,
